CITY OF TEMPLE LIFTS VOLUNTARY WATER CONSERVATION STAGE 1

Due to the seasonal reduction in water use, the City of Temple is lifting the voluntary water conservation measures implemented during the summer. Accordingly, Stage 1 of Temple's water conservation plan ends effective October 1, 2009.

Residents should continue to use water responsibly by repairing leaky faucets and leaking toilets, using low-flow showerheads, and following other common-sense measures that not only save water, but reduce their water bill as well.
